EVIDENCE IN THE IVES CASE

Testimony of the Colored Porter Who Took the C., H. & D. Books to New York.

Attempt of the Defense to Prove that Julius Dexter Tried to Prevent the Witness from Taking the Stand-Closing Argument.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.-The first witness in the Ives trial this morning was James H. Wilson, the porter of the C., H. & D. railroad private car. The direct examination of the witness amounted to nothing. Upon cross-examination the witness stated that he had been in the employ of the road as porter of the officers' private car for seven years. He remembered leaving Cincinnati on June 19 with the officers of the company, with Ives, Staynor and Woodruft. and were accompanied by Mrs. and Miss Staynor. The date was impressed on his mind because there had been a change of officers. Mrs. and Miss Staynor occupied the state-room. Woodruff told the porter that he would consign some books to his (the witness's) special keeping to be delivered to Mr. Ives at his office on Nassau street. Witness took the books. When the party reached New York, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Staynor went away in a carriage and Ives and Woodruft took a cab. The witness went back to Jersey City and brought over the books. He took them to the office at No. 25 Nassau street and waited there until Ives and Woodruff reached there and handed over the books to them. The books were given him by Mr. Short. in Cincinnati, and no one saw them until they were delivered in New York. He was told they were the books and seal of the company, but he did not see them. By Mr. Brooke—Was your pass to New York canceled?

"Yes, it was canceled at London, O., twenty-five miles from Columbus." "That is, during your journey here to testify to-day?"

Mr. Brooke, addressing the court, said: Your Honor, I offer this canceled pass in evidence to show that the vice-president of the road, in consultation with Julius Dexter, canceled the pass of the witness in order to keep him from coming here. Remember, I don't mean any reflection on the district attorney's office."

By Colonel Fellows—When did you learn you were wanted in New York?

"Thursday night. I told the clerk I had received a telegram."

received a telegram." "Whom was it from?" "It was signed by W. B. Wilson, an uncle of mine, I presume, whom I have not seen since I vas nine years of age. When I last heard from him he was in Arkansas." "And you did not think it strange that you should receive a telegram from your uncle in Arkansas telling you to come on to New York to see your aunt, who was at the point of death?"

"While in Brooklyn did you not stop with Thomas Proctor, who is Mr. Ives's body

"Did he talk to you about him in court

Lawyer Brooke started in to show, by a number of telegrams, how certain people interested in the prosecution tried to induce the witness to go back when they learned he had come here to testify in the Ives case, instead of coming to see a sick aunt. One of the telegrams he received from Woodruff, under date of the 9th inst., from Cincinnati, and read: To James H. Wilson, care of Conductor No. 6:

Come back to Cincinnati on first train. Answer nick. M. D. WOODRUFF. One from Mr. McCrea, manager of the road, was dated at Pittsburg, and read:

Piease pass James H. Wilson from Cincinnati to Pittsburg on C., H. & D., on special car. J. McCrea, General Manager.

These dispatches were written on white paper, which showed that they had passed over the private wires of the company. Witness had a pass to Pittsburg, where he was to get another upon his arrival to bring him on to New York. When he reached that point he found none, and was compelled to pay his fare. Witness read a message from Julius Dexter, asking why witness was going to New York. witness was going to New York.
Colonel Fellows here read the telegram sent to Wilson in Cincinnati. It was dated New York, Sept. 19: To James H. Wilson, Cincinnati:

Your aunt lies at the point of death. Come ere immediately.

A juror remarked that the telegram, under the circumstances, was unjustifiable, but withdrew the remark soon after, saying that he spoke on the spur of the mo-

The defense rested, and Mr. Brooke re-newed his motion asking that the court order the jury to acquit on the ground that the testimony of an accomplice was not admissible. This was denied. Then counsel moved to have stricken from the evidence that part of Woodruff's evidence which related to the 21st of January. This was also denied, and Mr. Brooke at once took up the task of addressing the jury.

Mr. Brooke carefully and methodically went over the testimony as given at the trial. He appeared calm until he reached the name of Mr. Julius Dexter. Then came an outburst. It was gennine, too, for the blood mantled the brow of the speaker and now and then the veins actually swelled as he poured out his invectives on the head of Dexter. "Ives picked up this scorpion," he fairly yelled, "out of the snow and warmed him in his bosom. He gave this friendless creature Dexter an interest in the road in order that he might qualify for a director, and purchased shares of stock for him."

Mr. Brooke gathered strength of invective as he proceeded and his characterization of Dexter grew into a phillipic that was most bitter. For two hours he spoke. The case will go to the jury to-morrow.

Suicide of a Murderous Old Man. MONTAGUE, Mich., Sept. 23. - George Doeile, for ten years night watchman at the Montague iron-works, left his work, Sunday morning, slightly intoxicated, with the full purpose of killing his aged wife. She was not at home, so Doelle thought his step-daughter. Kate Klopf, aged twenty, would do. He asked her to look down a well, and then struck her twice with an ax, but failed to seriously wound her. An alarm was raised, and Marshal Clinger went to the house, where he found Doelle hiding under the cellar stairs, with a long double-edged knife in his hand. The quarters were small, and the Marshal's revolver was knocked out of his hands. Then commenced a fierce struggle, during which Clinger was stabbed over the left eye, and in three places on his hand, and received a two-inch cut near the jugular vein. The Marshal's eyes filled with blood, but he was game, and finally at last choked his man into submission, and dragged him to jail. At 6 o'clock last evening, when the prison-er's supper was sent to him, he was found hanging by his neek from the cell bars, dead, baving committed suicide.

Draw a Pension on a Dead Man's Name. Youngstown, O., Sept. 23,-A sensation was caused here to-night by the arrest of George S. Swanston, a leading and well-known attorney. The arrest was made at the instance of United States detective F. H. Pipes, of Washington, who charges Swanston with fraudulently collecting pensions and the instance of United States detective F. sion money by impersonating a dead man. It appears Swanston secured a pension of $30 per quarter for Henry Pope, in December, 1886. One year later Pope died. Swanston continued to get his mail at a country postoffice, and by ferging the names of witnesses and Pope's, and as notary acknowledging the same continued to edging the same, continued to draw the money for one year after Pope's death. The pension department learned of the transaction through a once friend of Swanston, who swore vengeance for a certain legal transaction, and an officer was sent here with the above result. Swanston was taken to Cleveland to-night.

The Switch Was Turned Wrong. CHICAGO, Sept. 23 .- A special east-bound stock train on the Northwestern railway ran into a passenger train which left here at 10:30, last night, for Council Bluffs, over | teenth Regiment. the Galena division. The passenger was lying at a flag station at the end of the double track, waiting for the stock train to pass. By some mischance the switch was turned wrong as the freight approached, alry will meet in rennien this morning at and almost without warning the heavy 9 o'clock, in the Superior Court room, in stock train crashed into the passenger.

Both engines were smashed, and the baggage, mail and smoking cars were more or less damaged. The train men all escaped without injury, but two or three passen-gers received slight bruises, but none of a serious character.

BEEF-INSPECTION LAW KILLED.

An Opinion That Virtually Destroys Recent Enactments of Several State Legislatures.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 23 .- In the United States Circuit Court here, this morning, Judge Nelson delivered an able and exhaustive opinion, holding the Minnesota meat-inspection law unconstitutional and void. He held that it was in plain violation of the commercial clause of the Constitution, which provides that Congress shall have control of commerce between the States and with the Indian tribes. He also held that it was in violation of the clause of the Constitution which provides that the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all the previleges and immunities of the citizens of the several States.

The case was argued at great length last week by W. H. Sanborn, for the petitioner, Henry E. Barber, who applied for his dis-charge under a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that this inspection law was void, and by ex-Attorney-general Cole and C. W. Bunn in support of the law. The court granted the petition and discharged Mr. Barber. This decision opens the State of Minnesota throughout to the sale of dressed beef from Chicago and Kansas City, and practically settles the validity of the law compelling inspection on the hoof, because there is no court, except the Supreme Court of the United States, that has authority to reverse or overrule this decision, and it becomes the law of the land until it is reversed, and as an appeal could not be heard in the Supreme Court for from three to five years, and it is not at all probable that the decision of two so able jurists as Judges Blodgett and Nelson would ever be reversed, it in effect kills the Minnesota cattle-inspection law.

Thirty Young People Injured. ERIE, Pa., Sept. 23 .- A party of thirty young people went out into the country, yesterday, in a band wagon for a Sunday picnic. On their return, the driver, being under the influence of liquor, drove over a bank, throwing horses, wagon and party were badly injured, but Patrick Flaherty, of Springfield, and James Neyland, of Erie, were so badly crushed internally that they cannot live. The others received painful contusions and cuts but not broken bones. The driver, James Lewis, was seriously in-

A Deadly Bolt of Lightning. Winona, Minn., Sept. 23. — Lightning struck the house of Tyler Spaulding, at Pleasant Hill, at 8:30 Sunday night. One bolt went down the stovepipe and into the cellar. The other went off the stove and killed a girl six years old in her mother's lap. The father was knocked senseless, but not seriously hurt. The lightning struck the mother's shoulder and ran down the leg and across the body of a girl thir. the leg and across the body of a girl thir-teen years old. A boy of nine was unburt. He was putting out the fire when the father revived. The mother is not expected to live. The funeral of the girl took place at 2 P. M. to-day.

A "Cake-Walk" Kiss Causes Murder. CULPEPER, Va., Sept. 23.—On the farm of Mr. Sam Jones, about five miles from here, at a Saturday-night "cake-walk," at the house of James Fitzgerald, one of the ne-groes present kissed the wife of Fitzgerald, whereupon the latter seized his gun and fired at his wife, the whole charge striking her in the side, making a dreadful wound.
She fell and expired in fifteen minutes.
After committing the deed, Fitzgerald coolly walked up stairs and went to bed.
He was arrested and is now here in jail.

Savage Fight in a Barn. OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 23.—Patsy Corrigan, a stone-cutter, and Steve Hill, a laborer, fought thirteen savage rounds here in a barn, near Shot Tower, last night, with two-ounce gloves. Hill was nearly ten pounds lighter than his adversary, but was much the quicker. He got first blood, and by skillful work soon had the big man exhausted, and finished him without difficulty by terrific right handers in the jaw. The by terrific right-handers in the jaw. The fight lasted about an hour, and both men were fearfully punished.

Two Hunters Drowned. MENASHA, Wis., Sept. 23.—Wm. Miller, a married man, aged twenty-five, and Henry Schug, aged eighteen, were drowned near the east shore of Lake Winnebago some time yesterday. They went out in a boat, on a hunting trip, in the morning, and, not returning, search was instituted. Miller's body was found near the upturned boat, at Red Banks. Schug's body has not yet been found. Two Fatal Mine Accidents. ISHPEMING, Mich., Sept. 23. — Michael Carina, an Italian, forty years old, was killed by a fall of rock in the Calumet and Hecla mine this morning. He leaves a wife and three children. Hans Erluns, a Swede, while taking a ride on alskip in Allowez copper mine, fell off, dropping 600 feet. He leaves a widow and four children.

THE SUGAR FLAT ROAD.

A Contest Between Stockholders Over Its Possession Which May Signify Something.

The Citizen's Street-railrod Company

evidently wants a straight line of road to Broad Ripple and would like to have it over the Sugar Flat gravel-road. This fact probably suggested itself to James H. Rice and Leon Bailey, and, from the railway's stand-point, these gentlemen appear to occupy the manger. The Sugar Flat gravelroad is a continuation of Central avenue. The paid-up capital stock of the road was $2,425, divided into shares of $25 each, but it is said that the total amount of stock authorized is $6,000. Messrs. Rice and Bailey secured thirty-three shares and E. M. Johnson, acting with them, had contracted with the owner of sixteen additional shares for the purchase of which he paid the money, but the stock had never been transferred to him on the books. On the strength of the contract for the purchase, Bailey and Rice voted the sixteen shares in question. The stockholders in the road and the street-car company, on the other hand, had secured forty-eight shares, and Rice and Bailey supposed they had forty-nine shares, the majority of the stock. At this stage of the game word got out that the gravel-road company's secretary had issued two more shares of stock-one to Thomas Steele, superintendent of the street-car company, and one to H. C. Allen, attor-

for that company. This created a great row and rumpus, which is none the less when the report is made that instead of two shares thus issued the number is four, and that they were not issued by the secretary at all, but at a meeting of the board of directors, at which the president, Mr. Heinrichs, was present. These shares were ordered sold, as the road needed the money to make necessary repairs. The latest status of affairs indicates that the street-car company is in the lead, the distance between that company and the other would-be roadbuyers constantly widening.

Regimental Reunions. During the next few days several regimental reunions will be held in this city. On Wednesday next the Seventy-ninth Regiment will hold a reunion at the courthouse, the Fifty-tirst Regiment at the residence of General Streight, east of the city; the Fifty-fourth will also meet at the court-house on the same day. The One-hundredth Indiana Infantry will hold their reunion to-day and Wednesday at Pfafflin's Hall, on North Pennsylvania street. Captain Stevenson, Lieutenant Allen, George B. WHAT DE RUITER HAS DONE

How the City's Money Has Been Spent in Street Repairs, and the Work That Has Been Accomplished with It.

Eight o'clock is the hour, but the clock was on the stroke of 9 last night before six members of the Board of Aldermen could be got together to give audit and approval of the work done by the Common Council at its last meeting. The required number was obtained by sending out a special messenger for Alderman Clark, attempts to communicate with Aldermen Tousey. Smith and Connett by telephone having failed to meet with any response. President Wright and Alderman Reynolds represented the Republican side of the house, while Messrs. Clark, Laut, Rail and Reinecke answered for the opposition.

Mr. Rail asked for the reading of a communication that had been brought in by the street commissioner, in answer to an inquiry made regarding the expenditures of that department. The report was appended to a communication by the city clerk, which reported the total expenditures in the street commissioner's office to date as $42,152.65. The commissioner's report read as follows: To the President and Members of the Board of Al dermen: Gentlemen-At the request of the city clerk and on instructions of your honorable body, I submit the following report of operations of the street commissioner's department since the 1st January, with this statement, that the motion of your honorable body was so broad that it would be quite impossible, with the clerical help that I have in my office, even if it were possible to do have in my office, even if it were possible to do so, to make an exact answer to your request for the particular location of each separate item of work done in my department since January last; and if the following statement is not sufficiently full I can copy my pay-rolls and give a detailed account of the work done in my department, all of which, however, can be seen by inspection of the books in the office, which are open to all. First—It will be remembered that about two hundred miles of streets, alleys and sidewalks were opened last year for the purpose of laying therein gas and water mains, being more than all of the mains combined heretofore laid in the entire history of this city. The result was the throwing to the surface of enormous quantities of clay and gravel mixed, which could not be repacked in the trenches and of necessity had to be hauled away, and through the fall and winter had spread all over the streets and processitated had spread all over the streets and necessitated the removal thereof this year. In order to do this I have caused to be scraped and hauled away from the streets and aliey in this city about forty-five thousand loads of street-scrapings since the first of January, and much of this had become so packed on the bowlders and street surface generally as to require its being picked surface generally, as to require its being picked before it could be thrown together for removal.

Second—In order to fill up the bad places and chuck-holes in the streets, I have caused about five thousand loads of gravel to be hauled and spread upod the different streets of the city.

Third—I have caused to be recovered a number of the bridges over Pogue's run that mention ber of the bridges over Pogue's run that were in a dangerous condition to travel, and have caused the entire surface of Pogue's run bridge at Virginia avenue to be recovered at an expense of $700. The stringers to said Virginia-avenue bridge had become so decayed as to cause the construction of entire new treatle-work under construction of entire new trestle-work under said bridge. One-half of Fall-creek bridge, on Indiana avenue, has also been recovered and re-quired twenty thousand feet of oak plant. Fourth—I have caused about one hundred car-loads of broken stone to be used in repairing the streets and making crossings on the outskirts in this city.

Fifth—Under instructions of the Council and board I have caused to be raised all of the flagstone crossings in the center of the city and wherever needed in the outskirts of the city.

Sixth—Under your instructions I have laid 6,329 lineal feet of new flag-stone, at street and alley crossings, principally in the outskirts of the city, all of which have been paid for out of money in my department.

Seventh—I have caused to be repaired or rebuilt almost all of the culverts in the city.

Eighth—I have caused to be made and set 150

new culverts in new places.

Ninth—I have caused to be plowed up and made anew several of the old gravel streets that were so badly worn as apparently to be impossible of repairing.

Tenth—I have caused every bowldered street in the city, with the exception of South Illinois street, which I intend repairing in a few days, to be repaired with bowlders.

I will state that the above work has been dis-

I will state that the above work has been dis-tributed generally all over this city. It will be remembered that we have about four hundred miles of streets and alleys to be taken care of, miles of streets and alleys to be taken care of, and considering the extraordinarily bad condition the streets were in on January last, owing to the laying of so many miles of gas mains therein, the high price of labor and the short hours of work, as fixed by law, and the comparatively small amount of money at my disposal, I deem it a matter of congratulation that the streets of this city are in as good condition as they are now.

I will state further, that for the rest of the year the expenditures in my department will be very much less in peopertion than for the previous part of the year, for the reason that the great bulk of the above work, so far as streetscraping was concerned, was done of necessity in the early part of the year, and that practically all of the enormous quantity of surplus clay and gravel from the gas-trenches has been removed. Respectfully submitted, D. DERUITER, Street Commissioner.

A very large amount of sadness settled down on the Democratic side of the chamber when the reading of the report was over, while the Republicans smiled cheerfully, every one grasping the fact that the report was one highly creditable to the official making it, and furnishing no crumb of comfort for the enemy.

Alderman Laut submitted the following, which was adopted:

Moved, that the city attorney be in-structed to examine the natural gas ordinsuce with the view to ascertaining whether the natural gas companies can, under the law, collect pay of consumers three months in advance, and he be instructed to report at the next meeting of the Board of Alder-

Aldermen Rail and Reynolds were apthe board on the committee to receive the representatives of the South American republics on their visit to this city. The board then adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

ENGLISH'S OPERA-HOUSE-"THE BURGLAR." The opening performance of "The Burglar," at English's, last night, was witnessed by a large audience. The story is dramatic, and the play full of effective situations. An outline can be given in few words. William Lewis, a man of respectable connections and some attractive qualities, but bad principles, marries an amiable lady. He proves to be a burglar, though it is long before his wife knows it. At a critical point in his career he is reported and believed to be dead, and his wife, after a legal divorce, marries a former admirer, and, with the little child by his first marriage, they are happy. But her first husband is not dead. In pursuing his criminal career he enters, without knowing it, the house of the man who has married his wife. There, at midnight, and while intent on thoughts of robbery, if not murder, he encounters his little daughter. The interview between them is intensely dramatic. and full of natural feeling and pathetic touches. The husband enters and a stormy scene ensues, ending in the burglar's flight through the open window. The wife is ignorant of this visit, but learns of it later. In the last act the burglar, hunted by the police, again seeks the house of his former wife, whom he loves with the tender passion of a strong. bad man, and begs a last interview with her and his child. It is granted, and at its close, overcome with excitement and grief. he falls dead. This plot furnishes scope for some effective scenes and strong acting. There is a subordinate plot, which is a romance ending in marriage between a young lawyer and a sister of Bill Lewis's wife. The leading part, that of the burglar, is taken by Mr. A. S. Lipman, well known here as a strong actor. He has evidently studied the character thoroughly, and looks and acts it with realistic force. All the other parts are well taken. Miss Sydney Armstrong, as Mrs. Lewis, the burglar's wife, and Miss Gladys Rankin, Drew as Fannie, her younger sister, both produced an excellent impression by their finished acting. Mr. Maffitt as Paul Benton, the editor, Mr. Sidney Drew as Edward Bambridge, the law student—a young comedian of exceptional talents, and Mr. Everham as John Hamilton, the and Mr. Everham as John Hamilton, the retired merchant, were all entirely acceptable, while little Aimee Stoddard as Editha is a real infant phenomenon. The andience last night was thoroughly pleased, and the play is good for a week's attraction. GRAND OPERA-HOUSE-"FANTASMA."

Hanlon's "Fantasma," which has stood the test of time as a public favorite in highclass and wholesome divertisements, entered upon a week's presentation at the Grand, last night, with a successful and meritorious performance, before a fair house. Several innovations of sterling worth have been introduced. The scenic and mechanical effects are excellent, and new, and the tableaux are artistically arranged and beautiful under the changing calcium lights. New and exquisite costuming for the entire troupe, which is one of the largest traveling, is a pleasing feature.

"Fantasma," which is purely a spectacular display, does not call for any special effort in the speaking apportionments, but what dialogue is indulged in is ably given. The gestures are appropriate and convey an ent illustration propriate, and convey an apt illustration of dumb word-painting.

Miss Rose Forte, as Fantasma, the Fairy Quuen; William Hanlon, as Farmer Close; Eugene O'Rourke, Rico, the clown; Louis Pizarello and Miss Ida Mauzzy take the principal characters creditably.

PARK THEATER-PETE BAKER.

The popular German dialect comedian, Pete Baker, opened a week's engagement at the Park Theater yesterday afternoon, presenting "The Emigrant," The same play was repeated last night, and the house was crowded, as usual, at both performances. Baker is one of the cleverest comedians that comes to Indianapolis, and his plays are always given in a pleasing manner. He is a good singer and his specialties are of a character that never fail to meet with popular favor. "The Emigrant" gives him wide scope for the introduction of a number of entertaining introduction of a number of entertaining features, and as his company is a good one throughout, the performances are highly commendable.

A WONDERFUL CURE.

Interview With Mr. A. L. Williams of the C., St. L. & P. Ry.

Mr. Williams is an old employe of the C., St. L. & P. railroad, and is well known in Indianapolis. During an interview with the reporter he stated as follows:

"I suffered for three years." said the gentleman, "from general debility, which came on me gadually, until it had gained such a hold that at times I was incapacitated for work of any kind.

"My entire system was broken down. I lost all color and it seemed as if my blood had turned to water. I lost in weight until I almost became a skeleton; no matter how much rest I would take I would have a continual feeling of languidness, having scarcely any ambition left. Severe pains existed all through my body, but principally in my back. My appetite failed me to such an extent that at times I would not eat what one

MR. A. L. WILLIAMS. "My nerves were so unstrung that the least noise would make me tremble. It seemed as though I cared to do nothing but to remain in bed the greater part of the time. At nights I could not sleep soundly, and for hours I would lie awake.

"I tried innumerable doctors and all kinds of patent medicines I could hear of, but I was invariably made worse by their treatment or use. I went to the mountains and the South for a change, but without any honest. Lost month I was persuaded to try Gun Wa's Chinese Vegetable Remedies, and and so. I firmly believe I saved my life by so doing. Shortly after commencing his treatment I began to improve, gaining blood and flesh, the languid feeling left me and my rest was more natural and refresh-

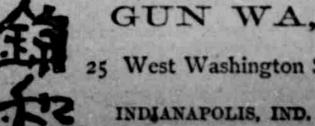

"Day by day I gained in strength and was enabled to once again attend to my vocation. Since I commenced taking his treatment I have not had any further care or trouble, and to-day I am almost fully recovered from one of the worst attacks of nervous debility that any man was ever afflicted with and recovered from. I am pleased to say that my recovery is due alone to the excellent treatment of Gun Wa, and I recommend him to all of my friends, for he is a man that you can depend on what he tells you."

Gun Wa is a Chinese physician, who cannot, under American laws, practice medicine; so he sells prepared Chinese Vegetable remedies for various diseases. He has been in Indianapolis for several months, duringwhich time he has effected so many remarkable cures that his name will soon be a household word in Indiana.

His suite of parlors are in the second story of 25 West Washington street. Every patient will see Gun Wa privately. No charge for consultation, examination er advice.

A friendly chat with Gun Wa costs nothing. If you cannot call on him send for his circulars on cancer, tapeworm, rheumatism, piles, female weakness, catarrh, or his book on nervous diseases. Cures guaranteed.
